Abstract:

In this paper we try to answer three questions: a. first, it was appropriate to abandon the promotion of an institutional system integrated in the federal Europe? b. then, ought to answer the question whether the institutional system is the 'confederate more appropriate for progress and prosperity of the peoples of Europe? and, thirdly, c. does come a time when European nations are sacrificing their own identities and accept their identities melt into a common identity, the European one.

Keywords: Constitutional Treaty, Europe, the broader.
