

Editorial politics

The editorial politics of the Review is to inform promptly the specialists on the actual issues of the juridical sciences (civil, general theory of the law etc.) and on the jurisprudence; to bring over specialists in order to analyze the legal fundamental issues and the jurisprudence that had been remarked during the appearance of the review.

The studies and articles sent for publication are peer reviewed and scientifically reviewed by the Editorial Board, coordinated by the Chief-editor or other elected members of the Editorial Board; the Editorial Board takes the final decision in publishing or not the study/article.

You need to take into consideration that the length of the study/article must not be over 15-20 pages (about 3000 marks/page). The book reviews or scientific notes must not be over 5 pages. In addition, we receive only electronic processed texts, including via e-mail: icj_juridic@yahoo.com.

Your study/article must contain an abstract (maximum half a page) and key words, in English and a short presentation of the author (scientific titles, didactic titles, place of work, fields of professional interest for him/she, an e-mail and phone number).

The entire responsibility for the originality and the affirmations contained within the article is, entirely, for the author.

Make-up the studies/articles

For the publication, the studies and articles have to be wrote in Word (Windows as operation system) under the following technical conditions:

Page Setup

Margins: Top: 2cm, Bottom: 2 cm, Left: 3cm , Right: 2 cm

Paper Size: A4

Fonts: Times New Roman, 12 pt, Justify

Text on a single column

Bibliographical sources will be cited completely, with the mention of the name and surname of the author, the paperwork, the publishing house, the place and the year of the apparition, pages. For the underlining points within the text there will be used italic words (as format, not bold or underline).